Odissi

Dance Performance

Sunday, January 31 • 2-3 PM

JCC of Greater Pittsburgh • 5738 Forbes Avenue • Levinson Hall

Free and open to the public

Drawing upon ancient Hindu temple sculptures of Orissa, India, Odissi is a graceful style of classical dance inspired by the literature, art and spiritual movements of Hinduism. Sreyashi Dey is the founder, president and artistic director of Srishti Dances of India, which specializes in performing and preserving the Odissi style. This free performance is presented in conjunction with the exhibit India: A Light Within, on display in the Berger Gallery of the JCC, 5738 Darlington Road, January 4–March 21, 2010.

The performance is made possible by The Pittsburgh Foundation.
